Forest-Fire Campaign Posters Distributed

Two thousand posters, depicting an automobile tourist in the depth of a forest, carefully quenching a campfire, and bearing a warning against leaving campfires, were distributed by James E. Scott, national forest inspector, to supervisors in forests of the intermountain district. The posters arrived yesterday. It is stated that these are the first of a series which will be distributed during the summer months for the education of persons who camp in the forests during the vacation period.

Anti-Rub Device Saves National Forest Posts

An "anti-rub" device, invented as a means of keeping cattle from rubbing sign posts to such an extent that the pole finally collapses, is reported in the daily news letter of the forest service.

It is stated that in a number of forest service districts staples are employed to good advantage. The first staple is driven into the post, linking the second staple in a manner that allows the sharp points of the second staple to protrude. Cattle soon cease rubbing against this device, it is stated.

ELKS HAVE BIG TIME AT M'GILL

Return Home Well Satisfied With Celebration and Reception Given Them

The Elk fete at McGill Saturday and Sunday proved one of the best affairs of this kind in many years, this was the report brought back by Ogden Elks who were present. A brass band and the entire populace of McGill was present when the Elks' Special from Ogden arrived. The town was decorated with elaborate electric lighting effects, purple and white bunting, and Ogden men couldn't part with a dime while in the city, they said.

Immediately on arrival, the sixteen Elks were loaded into automobiles and taken to an elaborate luncheon. They were then taken to the Copper company club house, and during the evening were entertained at a Knights of Pythias dance. The music was excellent, the jazz strains were said to rival the performances of eastern artists of syncope.

On Sunday morning, the Elks were taken through the mills and smelters. In the afternoon a parade, made up of 150 Elks from McGill, Ely, East Ely, Ruth, Tonopah, Elko and Ogden taking part. Candidates in cages, tied with heavy ropes and two goats were featured in the parade.

Seventy-eight candidates were initiated into Ogden lodge. In the evening, 225 Elks gathered in the lodge rooms, where entertainers from Salt Lake and from San Francisco added to the jollification of the evening. One of the features of the entertainment was "The Mystery of the Pajamas." Little concerning this feature was given out, but it was reported to be good.

The majority of the Ogden Elks remained in McGill until today, and are expected home this afternoon.

Utah Proclamation on Forest Week Praised

A copy of a letter of appreciation for the interest shown in forest protection week, sent by the Secretary of Agriculture, E. T. Meredith to Governor Simon Bamberger, was received today at the district forest office in this city.

A similar letter was also mailed to Governor Davis of Idaho, it was stated. The letter follows: Hon. Simon Bamberger, Governor of Utah, Salt Lake.

My Dear Governor Bamberger: Your proclamation of the week of May 23-29 as a time for bringing home to the people of Utah the importance of better protection of forests against fire, and the responsibilities of the individual and the community in this matter, is an action to which I give my hearty endorsement. I trust you will allow me to extend my congratulations to you on having taken this step, and my earnest good wishes for the successful carrying out of so public spirited a movement.

The matter of making adequate provision for the safe-guarding and renewal of our forests is of vital importance to the nation. Our decreasing timber and paper supplies are beginning to make clear to all the need for concerted action, and the states and the nation must join hands in the effort to halt forest destruction.

Not only as a source of permanent supplies of timber but also as conservators of great water supplies, our forests are essential to our industrial, economic and social welfare. Fire is their arch enemy. If we subdue that enemy—and we can if we will—we shall save our forests to the benefit of the people for all times.

Very sincerely yours, E. T. MEREDITH, Secretary of Agriculture.

JAP SUGAR LABORERS TO REMAIN ON STRIKE

HONOLULU, T. H., May 25.—A number of prominent Japanese commercial and professional men, meeting as the Japanese Current Problems Investigating association, recently appointed a committee of three leading Japanese to investigate the affairs of the Japanese labor organization which late in January instituted the strike of workers on the sugar plantations.

Despite the announcement of the planters that, as far as they are concerned, the strike is over and the places of the Japanese who walked out have been filled, the Hawaiian Federation of Labor, formerly known as the Japanese Federation of Labor, asserts it is prepared to carry the fight for higher wages to a finish. Originally about eight thousand Japanese and Filipinos went on strike. Most of the Filipinos have returned to work, but figures from Japanese sources indicate that about five thousand workers of that nationality still are holding out.
